This is the seventeenth of a series of new-style county histories which will include all of the 102 counties of Illinois, and, ultimately, all of the 3,103 counties of the United States. The project, specializing in aerial photographs of cities, towns, villages and farmsteads and with brief historical narratives added, is known as The American Aerial County History Series.

In the preparation of this work on Schuyler County, Illinois, the author and publisher hereby acknowledge their gratitude, for advice and assistance generously given them, to Mr. Joseph C. Wolf and Mrs. Ellen Chase of the Newberry Library, Chicago; to Mr. Herbert H. Hewitt, Mrs. Roberta Sutton and Miss Winifred Baum, all of the Chicago Public Library, Chicago; and to various librarians, public officials, business executives and private citizens of the town of Rushville and the county of Schuyler, Illinois. The author also wishes to express special acknowledgment to his wife, Marion Neville Drury, for research, editorial and proof-reading assistance.

Grateful appreciation is also shown here to officials of the Bureau of Public Roads of the U. S. Department of Commerce and to officials of the Department of Public Works & Planning of the State of Illinois (in particular to those in charge of that department's Bureau of Research and Planning in the Highway Department), for permission to use the Schuyler County maps included in this book.

STORY OF SCHUYLER COUNTY, ILLINOIS

In the midst of the great wheat belt of central Illinois, a region that is part of the still greater, and world famous, wheat-growing empire of the Midwest, lies Schuyler County, its rolling, fertile farms and pastures contributing their share to America's food supply. Aside from its present status as a leading Illinois agricultural county, however, Schuyler County is of note for its early Abraham Lincoln associations and as the birthplace and boyhood home of the celebrated American newspaper publisher, the late Edward Wyllis Scripps.

It was in 1854 that E. W. Scripps was born in a modest farmhouse just west of the county seat town of Rushville. After growing to maturity here, Scripps went out into the world and became one of America's foremost newspaper publishers as well as founder of the United Press, an international news-gathering agency. Today, the old Scripps farm at Rushville has been converted into Scripps Park, an attractive, landscaped recreation area containing a community house, tennis courts, athletic field and golf course.

FRENCH EXPLORERS

First white men to view the future site of Schuyler County were those two discoverers of the Upper Mississippi River and of what is now the eastern half of the Midwest, Father Marquette and Louis Jolliet. After having discovered the Upper Mississippi River in 1673, they were returning to Quebec by way of the Illinois River when they passed the place where, a century-and-a-half later, was formed Schuyler County. As we all know, the Illinois River forms the east boundary of the county.

Marquette and Jolliet claimed all of the wilderness territory they had traversed for the King of France and it thereafter became known as New France. But one hundred years later, following the close of the French and Indian Wars, this great wilderness domain of interior America came into the possession of the British. By that time, however, the thirteen colonies on the Atlantic seaboard were firmly established.

Then occurred the American Revolution of 1775-1783. After George Rogers Clark and his handful of backwoodsmen captured key British military posts in Illinois and Indiana, the new American flag was for the first time raised over that vast portion of the present Midwest lying east of the Mississippi River (that west of the river then belonged to Spain).

There followed the formation of the Northwest Territory, out of which were later carved the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Minnesota. When the Territory of Illinois was created in 1809, future Schuyler County was part of St. Clair County, then in 1812 it became part of Madison County. After Illinois was admitted to statehood in 1818, a number of new counties were formed, one of which, Pike (created 1821), embraced almost all of upper Illinois. There followed (1823) the establishment of Fulton County, and it was a portion of this county which, in 1825, became Schuyler County.

MILITARY TRACT

Before Schuyler County was formed, and even before Illinois was admitted to statehood, the United States government set aside a vast region of land in Illinois for veterans of the War of 1812. This was called the Military Tract. It lay between the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and extended upward as far north as a line drawn between Rock Island and Joliet.

As may be readily seen, what is now Schuyler County was located within this Military Tract. Any veteran of the War of 1812 could have a free quarter-section of land in the tract if he wanted it. But there were not many who accepted the offer; it seems most of them were reluctant to embrace the hardships of frontier life. Many of the ex-soldiers sold their "prairie quarter" for $100, or even less, and there were some who, we are told, traded theirs for a horse, a cow, and even a watch.

As a consequence, many of the first settlers of future Schuyler County had great difficulty in ascertaining the legal status of the land they had staked out; they did not know whether it was "Congress Land," which they were entitled to pre-empt, or "Patent Land," which belonged to some absentee soldier who had probably sold it. Often, a "land shark" would suddenly turn up as the rightful owner and demand an exorbitant price for the land which the settler had cleared, improved, cultivated and on which he had built a home.

EARLIEST SETTLERS

While the territory of present Schuyler County was still part of Fulton County, a number of homeseekers settled in the region after crossing the Illinois River at Beard's Ferry (afterwards Beardstown, in Cass County). The first of these arrived about 1823. Among them were Calvin Hobart, William H. Taylor, Orris McCartney, Thomas Blair, Thomas McKee, Samuel Horney, Hart Fellows, Ephraim Eggleston, Samuel Gooch and Isaac Rouse.

At the time of their arrival, the region was mostly a sea of tall prairie grass, dotted with flowers and marked here and there by groves of oak and willow trees. Under it all was the rich, black loam that was in aftertimes to become the foundation of great and prosperous farms. A few years before the arrival of Schuyler County's first settlers there had been signed the Treaty of Edwardsville, whereby the Kickapoos, Pottawatomies and other Indians of central Illinois agreed to move westward beyond the Mississippi River.

CREATION OF SCHUYLER COUNTY

By the year 1825 there were enough settlers in the prairie region northwest of Beard's Ferry to bring about the formation of a new county. The law, during pioneer times in Illinois, required that 350 legal voters had to be living in a region before it could be organized into a county. It would appear, then, that at least 350 citizens were dwelling in the area under discussion. After petitions were circulated and enough signatures obtained, the subject of a new county was brought before the Illinois state legislature at Vandalia, which then was the capital of Illinois. The lawmakers acted favorably on the petitions, and thus it was that Schuyler County came into existence on January 13, 1825. The act creating the new county was signed by Governor Edward Coles.

GENERAL PHILIP SCHUYLER

The new county was named after General Philip Schuyler, an outstanding officer of the American Revolution, member of the Continental Congress and father-in-law of Alexander Hamilton. Born at Albany, New York, in 1733, Philip John Schuyler belonged to one of the oldest and most aristocratic of the Dutch families of colonial New York. One member of the family, Peter Schuyler, was first mayor of Albany. The Schuylers were related by marriage to the Van Rensselaers, Van Cortlandts and several other old aristocratic Dutch families.

After serving as a captain and later a major in the French and Indian Wars, Philip Schuyler was appointed commissioner in the settlement of boundary disputes between New York and the New England states of New Hampshire and Massachusetts—a role that brought him some enemies in the New England States concerned. At the outbreak of the American Revolution in 1775, he was chosen one of four major generals in the Continental Army.

Assigned to the command in northern New York, General Schuyler formed an expedition to invade Canada but was prevented from leading it by illness. When this expedition failed to take Quebec, it retreated to New York and was placed under the temporary command of General Horatio Gates. There followed an intrigue of New England men to replace General Schuyler with General Gates as permanent commander of the northern New York army.

This so embittered General Schuyler that he resigned from the army, but his resignation was not accepted by Congress. A court martial later cleared General Schuyler of all charges of negligence. Afterwards, he served with great credit in the Continental Congress, in the New York senate and in the United States senate. He died in 1804 and was widely acclaimed as one of the founding fathers of the United States.

RUSHVILLE IS FOUNDED

As was customary at the time, a board of three commissioners, composed of men living outside the new county, was chosen by the legislature to select a county seat for Schuyler. After examining a number of settlements, the three commissioners decided on a site in the eastern part of the new county, not far from the Illinois River and from Beard's Ferry.

This site was about one mile west of where the village of Pleasant View was later established. A number of log cabins were built here and the place was named Beardstown after Thomas Beard, the pioneer ferryman just below on the Illinois River. In one of the cabins was held the first session of the Circuit Court, with Judge John York Sawyer presiding and with Hart Fellows as clerk and Orris McCartney as sheriff.

Another customary manifestation of the time was usually an outbreak of dissatisfaction among many settlers of a new county over the choice of a county seat. This happened in Schuyler. It was soon found that the village called Beardstown (not to be confused with the later community of Beardstown in Cass County) was unsatisfactory as a county seat, and in time the voters of Schuyler petitioned the state legislature for another three-man board of commissioners to select a new county seat.

This second board picked Rushville, located some five miles west of the little log village that was Schuyler's first county seat. And thus it was that, in 1826, Rushville became the county's seat of justice—a title it holds to the present day. At first, however, the town was called Rushton. When Rushton became county seat, the log village of Beardstown was deserted and in time disappeared. It was not until 1829 that the name was revived and bestowed on Beardstown, across the Illinois River in Cass County.

Today, the incorporated town of Rushville has a population of 2,682 and is the trading center of a widespread grain, fruit growing and coal mining area. Besides numerous retail stores and automotive and other service establishments, the town has its own postoffice and banking facilities. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and at the junction of US 24 and 67. Among leading sights in Rushville are Scripps Park and the Schuyler County Courthouse, built in 1881.

DR. BENJAMIN RUSH

The pioneer town of Rushton, later called Rushville, was named after Dr. Benjamin Rush, often referred to as the Father of American Medicine. He was also a Signer of the Declaration of Independence and an outstanding member of the Continental Congress. He was born near Philadelphia in 1745 and, after graduating from Princeton University, studied medicine in London and Paris.

Returning to America, he became professor of chemistry at Philadelphia Medical College, and, in 1774, founded (with James Pemberton) the first anti-slavery society in America. After signing the Declaration of Independence as a member of the Continental Congress from Pennsylvania, Dr. Rush served for a time as surgeon-general of the Continental Army.

It was in 1785 that Dr. Rush established at Philadelphia the first dispensary in the United States. Later, he became professor of the institutes of medicine and of clinical practice at the University of Pennsylvania. In 1788 Dr. Rush was appointed treasurer of the U. S. Mint in Philadelphia. He died in 1813. Dr. Rush wrote an important five-volume work called Medical Inquiries and Observations.

ABE LINCOLN'S WRESTLING MATCH

When the Black Hawk War of 1832 opened, young and tall Abe Lincoln was elected captain of a state militia company at the village of New Salem, which then was in Sangamon County. And it so came about that, once, when Lincoln and his men were encamped on the outskirts of Rushville, in Schuyler County, a wrestling match was arranged between Lincoln and a militiaman named Dow Thompson.

As both Lincoln and Thompson were considered champion wrestlers, the encounter was looked forward to with great eagerness among the soldiers. When the battle was under way, Lincoln soon found that he had met his match. At one point during the tussle, Lincoln shouted to his friends: "Boys, this is the most powerful man I ever had hold of."

The grappling continued. Then Lincoln was thrown to the ground. Would Thompson do it again? Lincoln's friends became worried. If Thompson threw Lincoln twice, he would be declared the winner. The wrestling continued. Then down again went Abe Lincoln. His friends shouted it was a foul. Thompson's friends said it was not. A free-for-all fight was looming when Lincoln got up, brushed the dust off his clothes, and ordered his friends to be silent.

"Boys," said the tall, smooth-shaven leader of the militia company, "give up your bets. If this man hasn't thrown me fairly, he could." And Lincoln's friends reluctantly gave up their bets. At a later period, Abe Lincoln recalled this match with Dow Thompson and said: "I never had been thrown in a wrestling match until the man from that company did it. He could have thrown a grizzly bear."

And thus was the future President of the United States defeated in a wrestling match outside the town of Rushville, in Schuyler County, Illinois.

But this was not the only appearance of the Great Emancipator in Schuyler County. At a later time, during the senatorial campaign of 1858, Lincoln, now a well known lawyer and former congressman, delivered a speech to the people of Rushville. His opponent for the office of United States senator was Stephen A. Douglas, who was to become the winner. In the meantime, however, Lincoln had achieved national renown and was being talked of as a presidential possibility.

TURNPIKE ROAD

It was in 1843 that a turnpike road was built through Schuyler County and this became a leading thoroughfare for the wheeled traffic of the time, including farmers' wagons, prairie schooners and stagecoaches. It came down from Macomb (in McDonough County) and at Rushville the road turned southeastward towards the Illinois River and Beardstown, in adjacent Cass County. At the present time, US 67 approximately follows the route of the old turnpike road of the 1840's and 1850's.

EDWARD WYLLIS SCRIPPS

In the year 1854 there was born in the Scripps farmhouse, just west of Rushville, a baby boy who was given the name of Edward Wyllis. As destiny would have it, Edward Wyllis Scripps grew up to become one of America's foremost newspaper publishers. He also became founder of that great world-wide news-gathering agency, the United Press. Furthermore, he was one of the donors of Scripps Park, an attractive recreation area of the Rushville area occupying the site of the old Scripps farm.

It was on June 18, 1854, that E. W. Scripps was born in the farmhouse just west of Rushville. After growing to maturity here, Scripps went to Detroit and joined the staff of the Detroit Tribune, then being published by his brother, James. After this paper was destroyed by fire in 1875, James Scripps founded a new one, the Detroit Evening News, and appointed E. W. Scripps as city editor.

Three years later E. W. Scripps entered the publishing field himself, establishing the Cleveland Penny Press (afterwards the Cleveland Press), a newspaper that was successful from the start. He then acquired other newspapers in Ohio, and, in 1896, formed an agency with Milton A. McRae to supply cable news to his papers. It was known as the Scripps-McRae Press Association.

In 1901 Scripps formed the Newspaper Enterprise Association for the providing of feature stories to local newspapers. Later he became associated with Roy W. Howard and out of this came the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance, parent body of the United Press. At one period Scripps owned thirty newspapers. He was deeply interested in science and founded Science Service, a news bureau for spreading scientific knowledge.

He also established the Scripps Foundation for Population Research at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and the Scripps Institution for Oceanographic Research at the University of California. He retired from active life in 1920. In 1924 he transferred control of his various interests to his son, Robert P. Scripps. The newspaper publisher died on his yacht off West Africa on March 12, 1926.

It was in 1922 that E. W. Scripps gave Scripps Park to the town of Rushville. In this he was joined by his two sisters, Virginia and Ellen Browning Scripps. The latter contributed an additional $100,000 for the construction of a community house in the park. She also provided for a golf course, tennis courts and an athletic field.

GOVERNOR FORD'S CANNONS

During the uprising against the Mormons at Nauvoo, Illinois, in 1844, the governor of the state, Thomas Ford, left Springfield at the head of a company of militia, intent on quelling the riots at Nauvoo. While en route to the Mormon city, Ford and his men, we are told, camped one night in the Public Square at Rushville.

We are told further that Governor Ford seemed to have been suffering from insomnia that night. In any case, he is said to have decided to amuse himself by engaging in pistol practice, firing at a target near the home of one James Little, private citizen. And thus it happened that James Little, too, spent a sleepless night.

In fact, Mr. Little was so furious, the story goes, that he swore out a warrant for the arrest of the state's chief executive, invoking the local law against firing pistols within the town limits. This, of course, enraged Governor Ford. After paying his fine, and getting his men ready to depart for Nauvoo, the governor vowed he would have revenge in some form or other on Mr. Little and on Rushville.

If the good citizens of Rushville gradually forgot about the incident in the days following, Governor Ford did not. While returning to Springfield, he and his men passed through Rushville in the middle of the night. Ordering an immediate halt, Governor Ford commanded his men to set up several brass cannon in the Public Square near the home of Mr. Little. When the cannons were pointed skyward, the governor gave the signal to fire. By the time the suddenly-awakened and terrified citizens of Rushville arrived in the Public Square, the governor and his men had disappeared in the night.

THE HON. A. LINCOLN, SPEAKER

As we have seen, Abraham Lincoln made one of his earliest appearances in Schuyler County as a wrestler—and a defeated wrestler, at that. This wrestling match occurred during a lull in the Black Hawk War of 1832. Subsequently, Lincoln became a lawyer, a member of the state legislature and served for one term in the Congress of the United States.

In his role as lawyer, Lincoln often appeared in the Schuyler County Courthouse at Rushville. But it was not until the historic senatorial campaign of 1858, in which he was opposed by Stephen A. Douglas, that the tall Springfield attorney delivered a formal speech to the assembled townspeople of Rushville on issues of the day.

The spot where that speech was delivered is marked today by an historical tablet in the center of the Public Square of Rushville. It explains that the address was given on October 20, 1858. As the people of Schuyler County were to find out later, Lincoln lost the senatorial race to Douglas, but on the other hand he won national renown and acclaim as a presidential possibility.

In that same senatorial campaign, Stephen A. Douglas, often called the "Little Giant" in his time, delivered a speech in Rushville, too. And in connection with it, there is another story involving a cannon in Rushville. So enthusiastic were the "Little Giant's" supporters in Rushville that they arranged to welcome him by shooting off a cannon in the Public Square; one they had borrowed from Beardstown. It seems, however, they gave the cannon too heavy a charge, for instead of shooting it exploded into a hundred pieces. Fortunately, no one was killed or injured, and, after the excitement was over, Judge Douglas proceeded with his political speech.

SCHUYLER COUNTY COURTHOUSE

When Rushville became county seat in 1826, one year after Schuyler County was formed, a log cabin was built on the north side of the Public Square and this became the county's first courthouse. It was a plain structure, and in it a wooden railing separated the judge and attorneys from spectators when the Circuit Court held sessions here. The spectators sat on wooden benches.

This primitive log courthouse served the county until 1829. In that year it was replaced by a permanent and more formal public building—an edifice of brick construction with numerous rooms for the transaction of county business and the keeping of records. It was in this second courthouse that Abraham Lincoln frequently appeared as an attorney in law cases.

In the course of time, however, this building proved inadequate to the needs of a county growing larger and larger in population each year. And thus it came about that, in 1881, the county's second courthouse was replaced by a third—an edifice which remains standing today.

The cornerstone of the present building was laid at ceremonies in 1881 presided over by the Masonic Order of Schuyler County. As a result, the cornerstone is dated according to the Masonic calendar, "June 24, A.L., 5881." The courthouse is a two-story edifice of brick construction and is surmounted by a square clock tower. In it are the rooms of the Circuit Court and the offices of the sheriff, coroner, clerk, treasurer, collector and surveyor of Schuyler County.

SCRIPPS PARK

An outstanding sight in Schuyler County today is Scripps Park, located at the western border of the county seat town of Rushville. It was presented to the town in 1922 by Edward Wyllis Scripps, famous American newspaper publisher, and his two sisters, Virginia and Ellen Browning Scripps.

Both Edward Scripps and his sisters were born in a farmhouse that stood on the site of the park, the publisher's birth having occurred in 1854. At that time the Scripps farm occupied an area of eighty acres. After growing to manhood, E. W. Scripps entered the newspaper field in Detroit and later founded a paper of his own in Cleveland.

Eventually, Scripps owned a total of thirty newspapers throughout the United States. He was also the founder of the Newspaper Enterprise Association and the United Press. His particular interest was science, and it was through his many newspapers and news agencies that he aroused popular interest in the latest discoveries of scientists in all parts of the world. He died in 1926.

When E. W. Scripps presented Scripps Park to the town of Rushville in 1922, his sister, Ellen Browning Scripps, added to the gift by contributing $100,000 for the construction of a spacious community house in the park. It stands on the site of the farmhouse in which E. W. Scripps was born. She also provided a golf course, tennis courts, an athletic field and a caretaker's house. The park, with its clipped lawns and many shade trees, is one of the most attractive in this part of Illinois.

SCHUYLER COUNTY TODAY

On the basis of the latest United States census figures, Schuyler County in 1950 had a total population of 9,613—which placed it 2,370th in population rank among the 3,103 counties of the United States. It is located on the Illinois River in west central Illinois and is situated in the following official districts: 30th Senatorial, 15th Congressional, 8th Judicial Circuit, 3d Appellate Court, and 4th Supreme Court.

Occupying a land area of 434 square miles, the county's density of population was 22 persons per square mile. Its principal community and county seat, Rushville, had a population of 2,682—an increase of 8.1 per cent over its 1940 population. A part of Buena Vista Township was annexed to the town of Rushville in 1947.

Of the county's total population, 4,906 were classified as rural farm dwellers, 2,025 as rural non-farm dwellers (persons living in small towns, villages, hamlets and rural places), and 2,682 as urban dwellers (all of whom lived in Rushville). There were 929 babies under five years of age in the county in 1950, and 1,293 persons sixty-five years old and over; the median age was given as 34.0 years. At that time there were 6,326 potential voters in the county (citizens twenty-one years old and over).

Under the heading of vital statistics, 189 infants were born that year, 124 deaths occurred (including 6 babies), and 90 marriages were performed. The number of families (two or more persons related by marriage or blood) was 2,665, and the median income of all these families was given as $2,077. More than 47 per cent of these families had less than $2,000 income and 6.9 per cent had $5,000 or more.

In the field of education, there were 1,570 young persons in the county between the ages of seven and seventeen years (school age). Within this group there were 935 youngsters between the ages of seven and thirteen who were enrolled in primary schools, and 515 between the ages of fourteen and seventeen who were enrolled in high schools. Among all inhabitants of the county twenty-five years old and over, the median number of school years they completed was found to be 8.9. In this group, also, it was found that 5.0 per cent completed less than five grades in school, while 28.0 per cent completed high school and college courses. The institutional population (mental hospitals, prisons, etc.) of the county in 1950 was given as 20.

In that same year the potential labor force of the county was 7,266 (all persons fourteen years old and over). Of this total, however, 3,539 were actually employed (of which 80.0 per cent were males and 17.4 per cent were females). The largest number of those employed (1,662) were engaged in agriculture, and the next largest number (450) were engaged in wholesale and retail trade. Then came manufacturing (212), professional and related services (210), construction (188), transportation, communication and other public utilities (143), business and personal services (130), and mining (55). The labor statistics are summed up by showing that 47.8 per cent of the county's total labor force is engaged in agriculture, while 6.1 per cent is engaged in manufacturing.

On the subject of housing, census figures for 1950 show there were 3,410 dwelling units in the county (with 3,402 in 1940). The median number of rooms per unit was 5.4, and 91.0 per cent were one-dwelling unit detached structures. More than 29 per cent had hot running water and private toilet and bath.

Of all of the dwelling units in the county, 60.5 per cent were owner-occupied, 33.3 per cent had central heating, 68.1 per cent had mechanical refrigerators, and 95.3 per cent had radios. There were 1,746 houses classified as non-farm dwelling units (mostly in towns and villages), and the median value of these was given as $4,935. Of renter-occupied houses, the median gross monthly rental was given as $34.99.

When the last business census was taken in 1948, it was found that Schuyler County contained 119 retail stores, which, in that year, grossed $6,022,000 in sales. Most of these stores were unincorporated businesses conducted by active proprietors. The largest number of retail stores were food establishments, which totaled 37 and which grossed $1,579,000 in sales. Second largest group were eating and drinking establishments, of which there were 14 and which grossed $353,000 in sales.

In 1948, also, there were 16 wholesale establishments in the county, and the sales that year amounted to $3,311,000. In the field of personal, business and repair services (barber and beauty shops, credit bureaus, advertising agencies, automotive repairs and services, etc.), there were 23 such establishments, and receipts amounted to $203,000.

As has already been stated, Schuyler County is one of the leading agricultural counties of central Illinois. In 1950 it had a total of 1,334 farms, of which 1,163 were classified as commercial farms. More than 33 per cent of all farms in the county were operated by tenants. A total of 252,000 acres were under cultivation.

The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was, in 1950, placed at $19,147. The value of all farm products (crops, livestock, dairy products, poultry) sold in 1949 amounted to $7,536,000. Farm expenditures that same year amounted to $893,000 for livestock and poultry feed, and $296,000 for hired labor. Total bank deposits in the county in 1950 amounted to $4,341,000.

TOWN OF RUSHVILLE

Principal community of Schuyler County, and that county's seat of justice, is the incorporated town of Rushville, which in 1950 had a total population of 2,682—an increase of 8.1 per cent over its 1940 population. A part of Buena Vista Township was annexed to Rushville in 1947. The town is located in almost the geographical center of Schuyler County.

In addition to numerous retail stores and automotive and other service establishments, Rushville has its own postoffice and banking facilities. It is served by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and by US 24 and 67. In the center of the town stands the Schuyler County Courthouse, a two-story edifice of brick construction built in 1881.

An outstanding sight in Rushville is Scripps Park, an attractive recreation area presented to the town in 1922 by the late E. W. Scripps, renowned American newspaper publisher, and his two sisters, Virginia and Ellen Browning Scripps. The park occupies the site of the old Scripps farm, where E. W. Scripps was born in 1854.

Rushville is the main community in Rushville Township, which has a total population of 2,777. Another community in the township is Pleasant View, with a population of 150.

BIRMINGHAM

It was in 1836, three years after the Black Hawk War, that the village of Birmingham was platted by David Graham, David Manlove and Moses Manlove. Today, the village has a population of fifty and serves as a trading center for the farming community around it. The village is located in the northwest corner of Schuyler County.

Birmingham village is the only community in Birmingham Township, which in 1950 had a total population of 423. First settler of the township was Brummel Sapp, who arrived with his family in 1823—two years before Schuyler County was created. He staked out a claim, built a log cabin, and soon had a small farm under cultivation.

BROOKLYN

In the level, fertile farming region northwest of Rushville stands the hamlet of Brooklyn, which in 1950 had a population of 115. It is situated on US 101 and serves as a trading center for the surrounding countryside. The hamlet is the principal community in Brooklyn Township, with a total population of 505. First settler of the township was William Owens, who came in 1830. It was in 1836 that the village of Brooklyn was platted by William C. Ralls, Joseph Duncan, Benjamin Clark and a Dr. Green. Another early settler was John E. Rigsby, who called his farm "Guinea Prairie."

WAYLAND

Another community in Brooklyn Township is Wayland. It is located in the southeast corner of the township and is surrounded by level, prosperous farms and pastures.

BROWNING

The incorporated village of Browning, with a population of 324, is located in the eastern part of the county on the Illinois River. Just below it, in neighboring Cass County, is situated the city of Beardstown. Through the village run the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and State 100.

Although Browning was platted in 1848 by Robert Dilworth, its site was marked by a log cabin built by John Lippencott as early as 1829. Browning is the principal community of Browning Township, which has a total population of 812. It was named after O. H. Browning, of Quincy, Illinois, a friend of Lincoln's and a United States senator for Illinois. First settler of the township was William Robertson, who arrived in 1826.

CAMDEN

West of Rushville, in a rich farming region, lies the incorporated village of Camden, which in 1950 had a population of 153. It has a number of retail stores and a postoffice. The village was platted in 1831 by Robert Brown and Joseph N. Ward. It is the principal community in Camden Township, with a total population of 514. The township was first settled in 1829 by Robert and John Brown and their brother-in-law, Luke Allphin, all of whom came from Kentucky. They were accompanied by their families.

MABEL

Another community in Camden Township is Mabel. In 1950 it had a population of fifty. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Camden village.

ERWIN

Still another community in Camden Township is Erwin, located east of Camden village. It was platted in 1860 by Columbus C. Meeks, an early settler of the region.

FREDERICK

On the Illinois River, just above the city of Beardstown in neighboring Cass County, stands the village of Frederick, which in 1950 had a population of 174. It is located at the junction of US 67 and State 100 and through it runs the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. It is the only community in Frederick Township, with a total population of 334. One of the earliest settlers of the township was James Lamming, who came about 1825. A few years later Andrew Vance, Timothy Harris and Edward White arrived, built log cabins, and laid out small farms.

BLUFF CITY

At the eastern edge of Schuyler County, near the Illinois River, stands the village of Bluff City, which in 1950 had a population of seventy-five. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Browning. Bluff City was laid out in 1860 by Abraham Louderback. It is one of two communities in Hickory Township, the total population of which is 328. The earliest settlers of the township were a group composed of Amos Richardson, Jonathan Viles, Nicholas Viles and the latter's son-in-law, William Stevenson. They arrived in the spring of 1826 and established the nucleus of a small settlement of log cabins in the area.

SHELDON GROVE

Another community in Hickory Township is Sheldon Grove, composed, also, of seventy-five inhabitants and served by the postoffice at nearby Browning. The village is situated on State 100. Just southwest of it is Long Lake and Hickory Island.

HUNTSVILLE

One of the oldest villages in the county, Huntsville is a small trading center of the farming community in the western portion of Schuyler. It has a population of fifty, a number of retail stores and a postoffice. The village was founded in 1836 by William Spangler, Willis G. Moffitt, John T. Gast, George H. Briscoe, Samuel Warren and John L. Ewing. One of this group, William Spangler, was the first settler of what is now Huntsville Township. He arrived in 1832, but instead of coming from the East, as was customary then, Spangler came from the West—from Quincy, Illinois. The township today has a population of 496 and is entirely devoted to agriculture.

LITTLETON

Having a present population of 215, the incorporated village of Littleton was platted in 1849 by James Little and his son-in-law, Dr. William H. Window. The village is located in the north portion of Schuyler County on State 101 and just west of US 67. Littleton has its own postoffice and a number of retail stores and automotive and other service establishments. It is the principal community in Littleton Township, which has a total population of 667. First settler of the township was David Tramor, who arrived early in 1825, or the same year in which Schuyler County was organized.

RAY

At first called Oakland, the village of Ray received its present name when the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad was built through the area in the late 1850's. The village has a number of retail stores and a postoffice. It is located just northwest of US 24. At the present time Ray has a population of 115. It is the only community in Oakland Township, with a total population of 454. It was in 1832 that the township's first settler, Richard Ashcraft, arrived from Kentucky. He afterwards became a preacher of the Baptist faith.

STATE FLAG OF ILLINOIS

ILLINOIS' STATE FLAG was officially adopted on July 6, 1915, after a vigorous campaign by Mrs. Ella Park Lawrence, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Early in 1912, Mrs. Lawrence began visiting local D. A. R. chapters throughout Illinois seeking cooperation in promoting selection of an official State banner to place in the Continental Memorial Hall in Washington, D. C. In 1913, Mrs. Lawrence offered a prize of $25.00 to the Illinois D. A. R. chapter submitting the best design for the banner. She also wrote to members of the General Assembly seeking their cooperation.

Four judges were then selected to choose the winning design. Thirty-five designs were submitted and the Rockford Chapter entry was chosen as Illinois' future emblem.

State Senator Raymond D. Meeker introduced the bill which was to legalize the flag. After passage in the Senate it was pushed through the House of Representatives, despite an overcrowded calendar.

The measure automatically became a law July 6, 1915, when the Governor failed to affix his signature to the bill.

The first official flag, made in Washington, D. C., was three by five feet in size, of white silk. Flags were given by Mrs. Lawrence to Secretary of State, Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (to hang in Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, D. C.); Rebecca Parke Chapter, Galesburg and the Illinois State Historical Society.

Visitors to Springfield cannot fail to notice the State Banner flanking the Stars and Stripes in the Rotunda at the State House. In the same juxtaposition it appears in the office of the Secretary of State. It is flown on ceremonial days by numerous patriotic bodies throughout the State. For officials and the public alike it stands as a reminder of our greatness as a State and our pride in our membership in the United States of America.

"DON'TS" IN THE USE OF THE FLAG

The conference called at Washington in June, 1923, to draw up a code covering proper civil usage of the flag, adopted the following list of things to avoid:

1. Do not dip the flag of the United States to any person or any thing. The regimental color, State flag, organization or institutional flag, will render this honor. At sea the flag may be dipped in acknowledgment of the salute of the flag of another nation.
2. Do not display the flag of the United States with the Union down except as a signal of distress.
3. Do not place any other flag or pennant above or to the right of the flag.
4. Do not let the flag of the United States touch the ground or tail in the water.
5. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the flag of the United States.
6. Do not use the flag as drapery.
7. Do not fasten the flag in such manner as will permit it to be easily torn.
8. Do not drape the flag over the top or sides of a vehicle, train or boat.
9. Do not use the flag to drape over front of a platform or over chairs or benches.
10. Do not display the flag on a float in a parade except on a staff.
11. Do not use the flag as a ceiling covering.
12. Do not use the flag of the United States as a portion of a costume.
13. Do not put lettering upon the flag.
14. Do not use the flag in any advertising.
15. Do not use the flag in such a manner as to cause it to be soiled or damaged.

To estimate the number of plants required for an acre at any given distance, multiply the distance between the rows by the distance between the plants, which will give the number of square feet allotted to each plant and divide the number of square feet in an acre (43,560) by this number. The quotient will be the number of plants required.

GRAIN MEASURE.

To find the capacity of a Bin or Wagon-bed; multiply the cubic feet by 8 (tenths). For great accuracy, add ¼ of a bushel for every 100 cubic feet.

To find the cubic ft., multiply the length, width and depth together.

Find the capacity of a Bin 4 ft. wide, 5 ft. deep, and 15 ft. long.

To get the exact answer 1 bu. is added for the 300 cubic ft.

$$4 \times 5 \times 15 = 300 \text{ cubic ft.}$$

$$.8$$

Ans. 240.0 bus.

$$240 + 1 = 241 \text{ bus. exact ans.}$$

How many bus. will a Wagon-bed hold, 10 ft. long, 3 ft. wide, 18 in. or 1½ ft. deep?

A Bed 10 ft. long, 3 ft. wide will hold 2 bu. for every in. in depth.

$$1 \frac{1}{2} \times 3 \times 10 = 45 \text{ cubic feet}$$

Ans. 36.0 bus.

EAR CORN MEASURE.

To find the contents of a Corn crib; multiply the cubic feet by 4 and divide the product by 9*.

Find the contents of a Corn crib 18 ft. long, 7 ft. wide and 8 ft. high.

*NOTE—This allows 2¼ cubic ft. for a bu. It is the rule most generally used, and will hold out in ordinary good corn, even if measured at the time it is cribbed.

$$7 \times 8 \times 18 = 1008 \text{ cubic feet}$$

Ans. 448 bus.

TWO SIMPLE RULES FOR FINDING THE CAPACITY OF ROUND BINS, IN BUSHELS.

Where the dimensions measure exactly in feet; multiply the diameter by the diameter, multiply by the depth, multiply by .63.

Where the dimensions measure in inches; multiply the diameter by the diameter, multiply by the depth, multiply by .000365.

TO FIND THE QUANTITY OF GRAIN WHEN HEAPED ON THE FLOOR IN THE FORM OF A CONE.

Square the depth and square the slant height, in inches. Take their difference and multiply by the depth, in inches. Multiply this product by .00048. The result will be the contents, in bushels.

TO FIND THE QUANTITY OF GRAIN WHEN HEAPED AGAINST A STRAIGHT WALL.

Square one-half of the depth and proceed as in the previous rule.

BANKING TABLES

RULES FOR COMPUTING INTEREST

The following is an approximate way to estimate the interest on any principal for any number of days. When the principal contains cents, mark off four places from the right of the result to express the interest in dollars and cents. When the principal contains dollars only, mark off two places.

2%—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run, and divide by 180.

4%—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run and divide by 90.

5%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 72.

6%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 60.

7%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 52.

8%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 45.

9%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 40.

10%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 36.

12%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 30.

15%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 24.

HANDY FACTS TO KNOW

To find diameter of a circle multiply circumference by .31831.

To find the circumference of a circle multiply diameter by 3.1416.

To find area of a circle multiply square of diameter by .7854.

To find surface of a ball multiply square of diameter by 3.1416.

To find side of an equal square multiply diameter by .8862.

To find cubic inches in a ball multiply cube of diameter by .5236.

Doubling the diameter of a pipe increases its capacity four times.

Double riveting is from 16 to 20 per cent stronger than single.

One cubic foot of anthracite coal weighs about 53 pounds.

One cubic foot of bituminous coal weighs from 47 to 50 pounds.

One ton of coal is equivalent to two cords of wood for steam purposes.

A gallon of water (U. S. Standard) weighs 8 $\frac{1}{2}$  pounds and contains 231 cubic inches.

A cubic foot of water contains 7 $\frac{1}{2}$  gallons, 1,728 cubic inches, and weighs 62 $\frac{1}{2}$  pounds.

Each nominal horse power of a boiler requires 30 to 35 pounds of water per hour.

To sharpen dull files lay them in dilute sulphuric acid until they are eaten deep enough.

A horse power is equivalent to raising 33,000 pounds one foot per minute, or 550 pounds one foot per second.

The average consumption of coal for steam boilers is 12 pounds per hour for each square foot of grate surface.

To find the pressure in pounds per square inch of a column of water multiply the height of the column in feet by .434.

Steam rising from water at its boiling point (212 degrees) has a pressure equal to the atmosphere (14.7 pounds to the square inch).

To evaporate one cubic foot of water requires the consumption of 7 $\frac{1}{2}$  pounds of ordinary coal, or about 1 pound of coal to 1 gallon of water.
